

HUMOR

Karl begged for more pie.
"No, sir," said nurse emphatically. "You couldn't eat any more with impunity."
"I don't have to," answered Karl.
"See, I have a knife and fork."

"Karl, do you ever play ball with your dad?" asked an neighbor.
"Yes; but I don't like it very much."
"Why? I thought your dad was a good player."
"He is all right, but when the ball gets lost he sits down and smokes while I have to hunt for it."

"Karl, how much are five and six?"
"I don't know," answered the boy.
"Five and six are eleven," explained the teacher.
"They can't be, because eight and three make eleven; you told us so yesterday."

Teacher was explaining a geography lesson. "On your right is the south, your left is the north and in front of you is the east. Now, Karl, what is behind you?"
Karl studied a moment, then, frowning, exclaimed: "I just knew you'd say something. I told ma you'd notice the patch on my pants!"

Old Jake Schmidt, who worked in a railway freight house, was an inveterate smoker, and despite the rule of the company against smoking in that building, Jake was always puffing away on his old pipe.

One day the division superintendent happened along the went over to Jake, with the intention, he afterward admitted, of discharging him.
"Do you smoke much?" he asked.
"Yes," replied Jake, "I smoke all the time."

"I guess you don't know who I am, do you?" asked the superintendent.
"No," replied Jake listlessly, "I don't know who you are."
"Well, I'm Mr. McCoy, superintendent of this railroad."
"Dat's a fine job you got," replied Jake. "Take care of it."
Jake still has his job.

The colored defendant, who was being tried on a charge of keeping a dog without a license, tried repeatedly to interrupt the legal proceedings, but each time was sternly silenced by the court. Finally the judge turned to him.

"Do you want the court to understand," he said, "that you refuse to renew your dog license?"
"Yessah, but—"
"We want no 'buts.' You must renew the license or be fined. You know that it expired on January 1st, don't you?"
"Yessah; but so did the dog, sah."

Mrs. Newlywed—We are neutral, aren't we, George?
Mr. Newlywed—Yes, dear.
Mrs. Newlywed—We mustn't show any bias, must we?
Mr. Newlywed—No.
Mrs. Newlywed—Then I did just right.
Mr. Newlywed—In what way?
Mrs. Newlywed—Why, I gave all our French mustard and our German soup and our English breakfast tea and our Russian caviar to Mary, the cook. Mary said she didn't think her food was neutral—and she was quite sure they needed the soap and things. Wasn't that thoughtful of me?

"Who are those people who are cheering?" asked the recruit as the soldiers marched to the train.
"Those," replied the veteran, "are the people who are not going."

"William, why can't we have an automobile like other people?"
"Because, my dear, I'll have to put a new roof on the house before it will hold a mortgage."

"Hello, Jones! Why so gloomy this morning?"
"I am worried about the overhead charges. Just got my wife's hat bill."

Some people have as much heart as a doughnut.
The boy in the school was being examined in geography.
"What kind of mountains are there in South America?" he was asked.
"High," he replied.

Professor—Has anything ever been discovered on Venus?
Student—No, sir; there has not, if the pictures are correct.

I look on that man as happy who, when there is a question of success, looks into his work for a reply, not into the market, not into opinion, not into patronage.—Emerson.

Don't laugh at those who make mistakes and stumble on the way. For you are apt to follow them—and almost any day.
Don't think the others shifting sand, while you are solid rock. And don't forget for heaven's sake, that any fool can knock.

"Ma," inquired Bobby, "hasn't pa a queer idea of heaven?"
"Why do you ask that?"
"Cause I heard him tell Mr. Naylor that the week you spent at the seashore seemed like heaven to him."

YOUR COLD IS DANGEROUS

CRAZY BY DRINK, HE KILLS GIRL-WIFE, SELF
Norfolk, Va.—Shooting his young wife through the head and following her down stairs when she fell in the hallway, John Newton, employed by the W. H. French Dredging Company, lay down beside her, placed his arms across his body and fired a shot into his own brain. Both are dead.

This double tragedy occurred about 10:30 o'clock Friday morning in the home of J. A. Turley, 1240 Forty-Seventh street, Lambert Point, where Mr. and Mrs. Newton lived. It was caused, it is said, by drink.

Mrs. Newton was only fifteen years old and was married to Newton July 16, by the Rev. Hugh J. Paler, pastor of the Lamberts Point Methodist church. She was Miss Ola May Ford. The couple had been living with Mrs. Turley and her mother, Mrs. Sallie Ford Crosswell about three months.

CIRCUMSTANTIAL EVIDENCE.
Kelly was brought into the dock charged by his wife with assaulting her.
Mrs. Kelly, who had given her better half in charge on the previous night, found that her heart had softened toward him in the meantime. Consequently, when she took her stand in the witness box she said she was unable to give evidence against him.

"But," protested the magistrate, "when you gave your husband in charge you stated that he had struck you in the mouth."
"Well, and it's true someone hit me in the mouth, Your Honor, but on thinking it over, I can't say who it was, for I had my back turned to him at the time."

PAINS IN BACK AND HIPS.

A GOOD REASON.
Chief Clerk—Why on earth don't you laugh when the boss tells a joke?
Office Boy—I don't have to; I quit on Saturday.

Washington has sent the cruiser Tacoma to Colon to protect the neutrality of the Canal Zone.

MY DAILY DESIRE.
To awake each morning with a smile brightening my face; to greet the day with reverence for the opportunities it contains; to approach my work with a clear mind; to hold ever before me, even in the doing of little things, the Ultimate Purpose toward which I am working; to meet men and women with laughter on my lips and love in my heart; to be gentle and kind and courteous through all the hours; to approach the night with the weariness that ever woos sleep and the joy that comes from work well done—this is how I desire to waste wisely my days.—Dreier.
